Headline:
England and Wales fine and very warm again today.

Today:
Most of England and Wales will have another fine and very warm day. There will be more cloud around than yesterday, but still some good spells of sunshine. Cloudier across Scotland and Northern Ireland where rain at times for some.

Tonight:
Early evening cloud over Scotland sinking southwards into England and Wales, cloud thick enough for a little rain in southern Scotland and northern England. Clear spells in the far north.

Thursday:
Early cloud over parts of southern Scotland, Northern Ireland and much of England and Wales breaking leaving sunny spells. Fine and bright elsewhere. Breezy and less warm than today.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Mostly dry with sunny spells and some overnight frost on Friday and Saturday. Becoming unsettled and windy with rain then showers on Sunday, with showers turning wintry.
